The FAQs

What can I read for the Teen Summer Reading Challenge?

Read any book you want – paper books, eBooks, even audiobooks count! If you'd like suggestions, check out the book recommendations in Beanstack, the Bibliographies on the Emma Clark Teen Page, or email your Teen Librarian, Emily Ostrander, at emily@emmaclark.org.

How do I earn Raffle Tickets?

It's simple. All you need to do is write a very brief review of the book you've read and enter it into Beanstack. Enter the books you've read one at a time into the reading log, and click "yes" when prompted to write a review. Reviews must be at least 30 characters long (which is really only a few words) to earn a raffle ticket. Completed reviews instantly earn raffle tickets, which you can immediately enter into the prizes. Feel free to spread out your tickets into different prizes or put all of your tickets into one prize that you really want. All raffles are drawn at the end of the challenge. Tickets are accepted up until 11:59pm August 21st, 2022. Raffle winners will be alerted the week of August 22nd, 2022. A listing of all raffle prizes can be found below, as well as at teen.emmaclark.org/teens-summer-reading.

What if I don't want to write reviews?

You're not required to write reviews; however, if you do not write reviews, you cannot earn raffle tickets. Either way, it's a nice log of all the books you've read this summer!

What's an "Activity" in Beanstack, and why would I log it?

An activity is anything you do this summer. Logged activities do not earn more raffle tickets, but can be looked back on, just like a summer journal!

What are these "Badges" I'm earning when I write reviews?

Badges are just colorful, virtual stickers you earn for every review you write, in addition to raffle tickets. They are a fun way to keep track of all your hard work!
